Anaconda Creek – AK-FAS-511439

STATE: Alaska

Aerial reconnaissance of the Anaconda Creek Fire on Thursday enabled accurate re-mapping of the fire's perimeter, plotting the fire's actual size at 1,379 acres. Previous mapping and acreage was incorrect.

Fire behavior was moderate Thursday, with short-range spotting in dense black spruce, mainly on the fire's southeast corner.

A new fire was discovered to the northeast of the Anaconda Fire, about five miles due north from milepost 50 of Chena Hot Springs Road. The West Fork Fire has burned about 200 acres. The Anaconda Fire Incident Management Team will support the Alaska Division of Forestry with the management of the West Fork Fire as needed. It is unknown at this time which crews will be working this new start.

All crews were assigned to Division C. Both North Carolina Crews (NC-ST 1 and 2) worked behind the Roosevelt hot shot crew reinforcing and widening their saw line to 50 ft.

Crews VA-ST 1 and KY-MA were supporting dozer operations.

MORALE OF CREWS:

Good. Crews are upbeat and were eager to begin their first work assignment on the line.

INJURIES:

Anaconda Creek: Left Shoulder Injury to Crew Member. Injury occurred while moving brush/small limbs out of the fire break they were widening. He heard a pop in his left shoulder while tossing a log out of the line at approximately 1630. He did not think it was too bad so did not inform his crew boss until after they arrived back at camp at approximately 2045. After arriving back at camp, he said he started experiencing much greater pain in his shoulder. After examining by the Med unit, they gave him Tylenol and an ice pack and it was decided that he should visit the ER at the hospital for precautionary reasons. IARR Baldwin and IARR (t) Jackson drove him to the ER at Fairbanks Memorial Hospital, arriving at approximately 2145. We met comp claims unit leader, Tracy Nicholson, at the hospital and she provided her assistance. He is a casual hire AD from the State. We left the hospital at 2415 and he stayed on the couch in IARR Baldwin's hotel room for the night. More information to follow on the next report for Saturday June 27, 2015.
